CHRISTIE'S PRIVATE SALES 台北國際藝文博覽會

- Intrinsically Eastern: Educated as a child in traditional East Asian philosophy with emphasis on calligraphy, Lee Ufan sought to reject Western notions of representation and seek an artistic language that is rooted in Eastern tradition. In the 1960s, he became a leading figure of the Mono-ha (物派), materials-based art movement from Japan and the Dansaekhwa movement in Korea.
- Infinite space: The shifting, repetitive brush strokes float against a warm cream background, spread evenly across the canvas, giving the impression of an infinitely repeating abstract pattern. The different shades of grey add depth to the dimensions.
- Meditative motions: This painting has been constructed in a disciplined, almost ritualistic way that is characteristic of Lee's practice. The repetitive motions resemble the breath of living organisms in nature.
- Globally established: Lee Ufan is one of the most sought after Korean artists in the international art world. He is one of three Asian artists who held a retrospective exhibition at the Guggenheim Museum in New York along with Paik Nam-June and Cai Guo-Qiang. Lee's works are exhibited at the Palace of Versailles following successful shows by Jeff Koons and Takashi Murakami.
